

Professional Summary

My career has moved across social impact, deep-tech and fintech, but the thread has stayed the same: helping people learn, grow and work with more clarity. I build systems that make work easier to navigate, teams easier to lead and cultures easier to sustain as organisations scale. Whether it was teaching children, developing youth employability programs or building people practice in high-growth startups, the heart of the work has always been the same: helping people and thereby, doing meaningful work with confidence and support.
